The staff do the very best they can within the limits they have. it is a vexed question as to how much care is enough

All the staff strive to deliver the best service they can for the staff ratio available per resident. The organisation openly encourages feedback from residents and family members and is genuine in their desire to address issues and concerns brought to their attention. Budgets, funding constraints and increasing demand for higher levels of care (people living longer and with chronic health issues) and increasing customer expectations make the situation very challenging for all stakeholders!

Care from staff was exceptional. Was an "extra services" bed in an aged care facility.

Very caring staff that are consistently courteous and engaging. They look after my mother well.

My stepfather was cared for very well. Was washed quickly after fouling himself. Staff kept him company when relatives couldn't be there.
