A place where the residents are treated with the utmost respect and dignity. Information is readily available to family and they are welcome to attend at any time. As a family we are very grateful for the care they are taking of our father in his twilight years. Our experience is the opposite of the media portrayal of residential aged care

The facility my mum was in was fantastic. She loved it, called it her home. It gave her a new social dimension to her life. Making new friends and sharing in the activities there. It is so good mum was so happy for those last 3 years of her life. During those last days of her life staff excelled to know that the extended family were comfortable. Even providing refreshments for us daily.

My mother stayed for 2 weeks after a horror time in hospital. From the outset they were caring and understanding. Above all they were professional. Lovely buildings, beautiful outlook over the hills. Very social and well appointed. My mother wasn't rapt in the food, but what I saw looked pretty good. Just not your usual meat and 3 veg.
