My mother was in Estia at Daw Park (previously Sandhurst) for almost 5 years. She did not attend any internal activities, however during that time I saw several choirs, pianists and so on and they were excellent. The monthly high tea was also greatly enjoyed. She loved the visiting dogs, and the resident rabbit and chickens which added a more homely quality. The staff have a very difficult job but they were always polite, and treated my mother with respect and dignity. The staff were always quick to call with any problems or medical concerns, and the facility doctor was excellent.
